PERENNIAL PRACTICE

AN ECOSPHERE STUDIES WORKSHOP

This workshop invites you to The Land Institute to learn about our long-term efforts to create a perennial grain agriculture and to practice perennial habits of mind and community life. Grounded in shared experiences of place, we will investigate these new perspectives and tools to help make pathways toward a good future in our common home.

The workshop will be led by The Land Institute's Director of Ecosphere Studies, Aubrey Streit Krug, and is designed for everyone interested in food, teaching and learning, and community building.

*Join us for a weekend of renewal in the beauty of the

The workshop leads participants on a cohesive journey. Registration is intended for those who can attend the entire event. The workshop is free of charge; snacks and lunch are provided for participants.

Please register by April 12 by visiting: www.landinstitute.org/events
